Progress Through Conflict And Tension

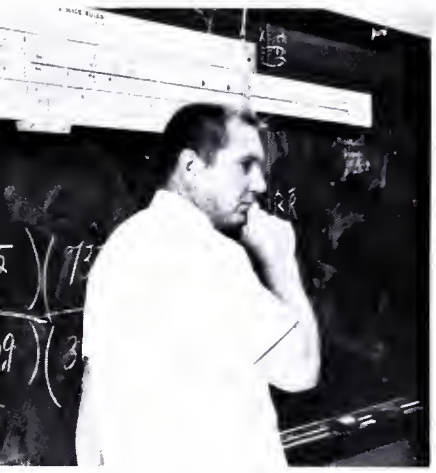
The opening moments of September third were naturally nervous and tense. The apprehension we felt increased as the year progressed and we agonized over difficult teachers, tests, college decisions, and athletic contests. Yet somehow these obstacles contributed to the success of the year. Recognizing the difficulties we surmounted made our many accomplishments seem even greater.

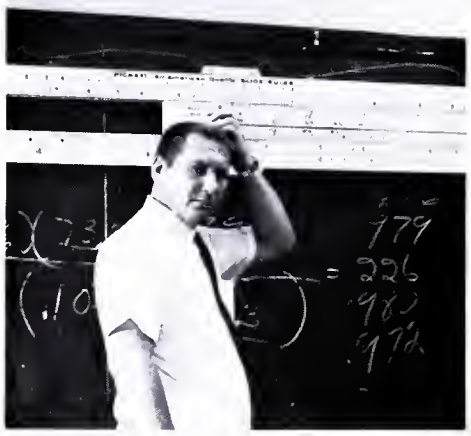
FOREWORD

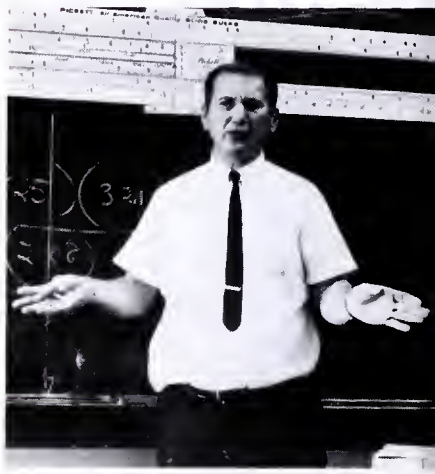
Classroom Tensions Eased As The Year Progressed

Under the best conditions, teaching has always been an "uphill" job. This year, a decrease in the teaching staff made conditions somewhat even less desirable. The remaining faculty members faced the strain of greater work loads and larger classes. Several teachers taught courses which they had not previously taught. Miss Lerg, formerly a teacher of United States-Virginia History, was assigned three senior government classes, while Mr. Match had several sociology and economics classes.

Trying to instill knowledge into unreceptive minds must surely require patience and mental stamina. Tense classroom situations existed throughout the year; however, as June approached, teachers looked back upon their achievements with satisfaction.







We Solved Our Conflicts Together . . .

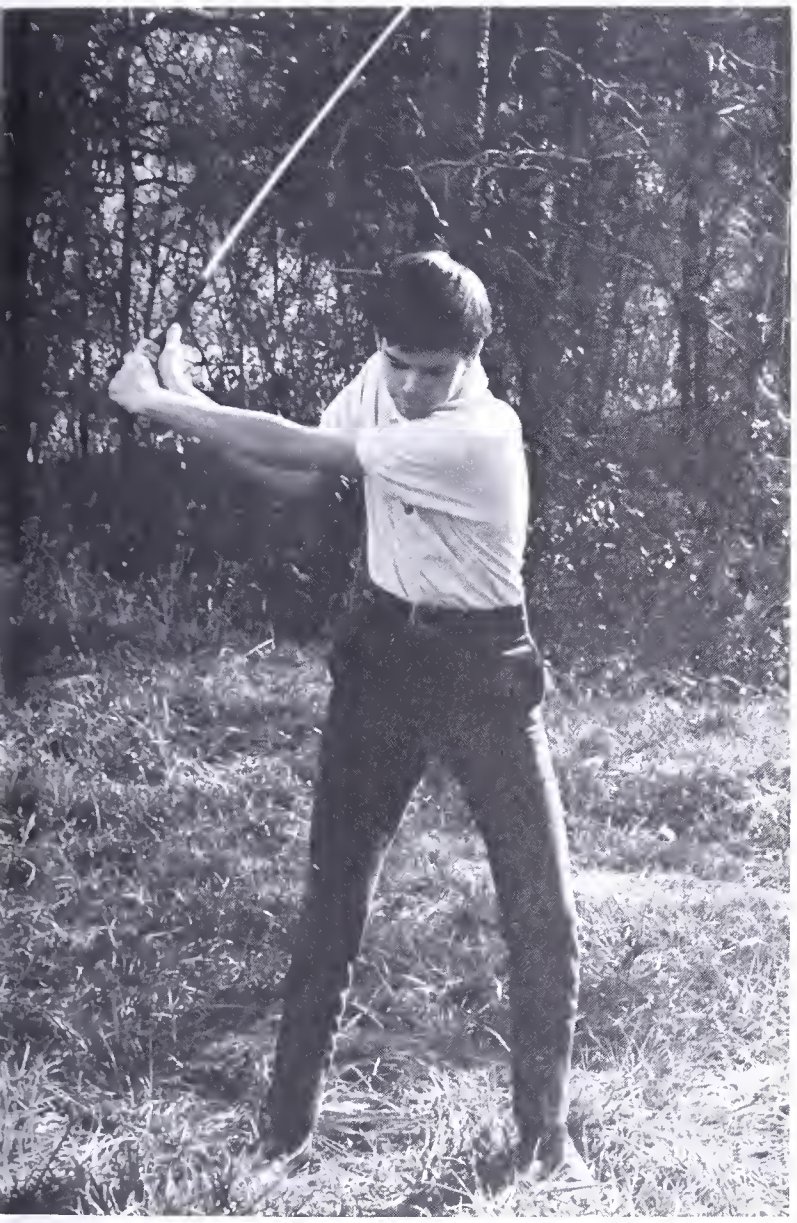
There were no better examples of competition between classes than our Friday morning pep rallies. Straining to win the Spiriters' pep jug, freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors attempted to outyell each other. This competition was not only beneficial to spirit, but it also helped students to develop deep pride in their classes. And certainly no one doubted that such vigorous cheering was the best way to start off the morning — wide awake!

. . . And Alone

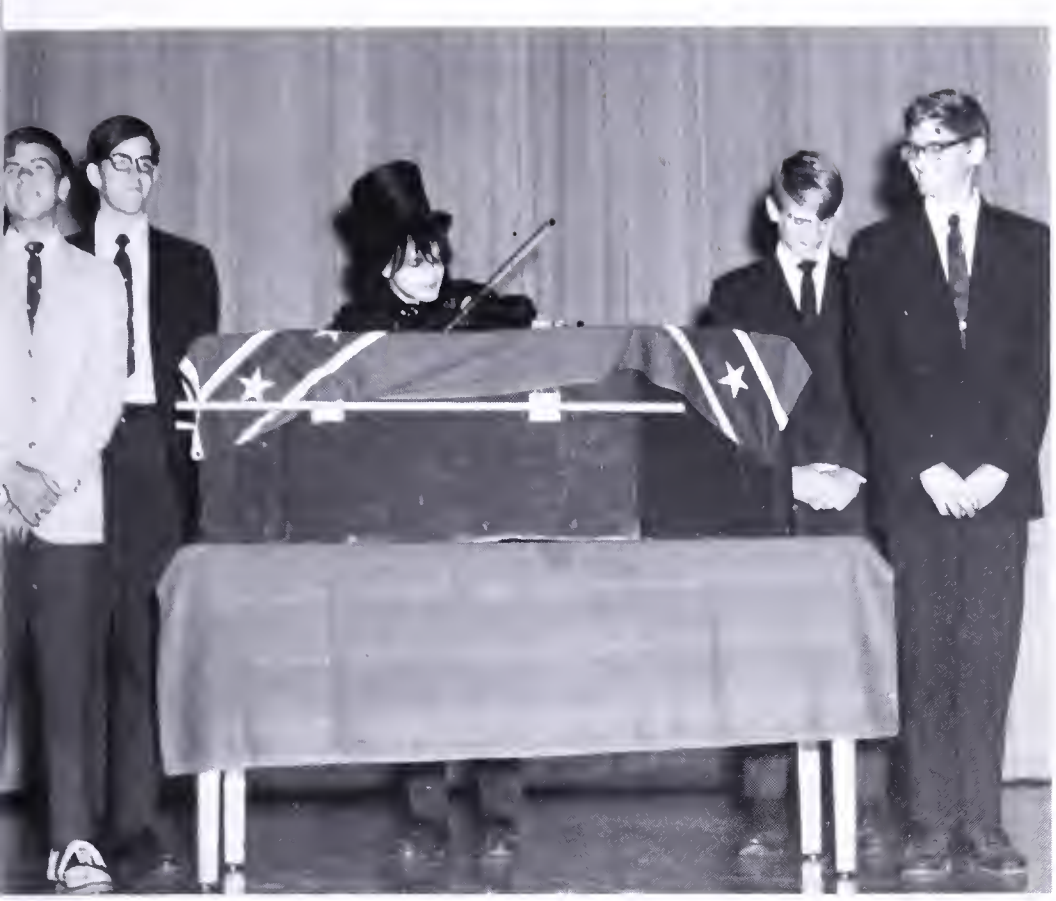
Mount Vernon Athletes Knew

Pre-game friction, regardless of the sport, heightened the satisfaction of victory; the struggle for glory made the results even more rewarding. Certainly no one could argue that coming from behind to beat the Federals was not more gratifying than an easy victory. Though spectators enjoyed the excitement of a close score, it was difficult for them to experience the tension as intently as the participants did. Still each student at Mount Vernon appreciated the tremendous efforts of every golfer, pitcher, runner, goalie, lineman, and forward.

The Strain Of Successful Progress



By Learning To Compromise, We Saw The



Beneficial Outcome Of Our Conflicts

The members of each club and organization were held together by a bond — a common interest. However, there were times when our ideas and viewpoints conflicted. We often disagreed over policies and activities; we argued and debated issues. The S.C.A. floor was always open for discussion and suggestions. Everyone had the opportunity to express his own opinions before a vote was taken and a decision was reached. These differences of opinion were to our advantage because they taught us to compromise and benefit from the knowledge and ideas of each other.

By Meeting Socially, We Eased Our Daily Tensions

Temporarily forgetting the strain of running the 600, the morbid fascination of frog dissection, the frustration of studying the Constitution, and the woes of Hamlet, we took time to relax. We discovered that school had another side — a brighter side composed of dances, pep rallies, banquets, plays, and beauty contests. The weekends were times for gaiety, laughter, and enjoyment of being together. After these short, renewing breaks, we were ready to resume our hectic schedules on Monday mornings.

CORNET

Faculty Worked Today For Progress Tomorrow

In view of the future conversion of Mount Vernon High School to a new location, teachers accepted the additional responsibility of planning the move. Early in the year, faculty members met and discussed the changes to be made. Shouldering the burden of this difficult task, teachers anticipated the move as more progress was made with each important policy decision.

Administrators Demonstrated Patience,

Always an active part of our school life, Mr. Melvin B. Landes was a familiar sight at Mount Vernon. From the first day of school, Mr. Landes was involved in all activities. On the Friday of the Fairfax football game, he was seen wearing his Majors hat, enthusiastically supporting the team. Each student came to feel at ease with Mr. Landes, just as they learned to trust assistant principals Mr. Christiano, Mr. Kazlausky, and Mr. Propps. Though these men were in charge of discipline, their understanding, just treatment of problems brought them close to the student body.

GUIDANCE

The guidance department underwent a change this year. An extra office, made vacant by a reduction of staff members, became a college reference room open to all students. This service, utilized by many undecided seniors, was instrumental in the final selection of colleges.

A new program of group guidance, which consisted of freshman and transfer student orientation and post-graduate planning, was instituted. Counselors provided an opportunity for seniors, whether college-bound or not, to discuss their future plans. Yes, with the diligent guidance of the counselors, the years ahead did not seem so doubtful.

OFFICE AND LIBRARY

Handling school business and keeping track of over 1,500 students is not an easy job, but our secretaries managed efficiently. In addition to supervising checkouts and recording absences they financed and directed the school store.

Though faced with a lower budget this year, Mrs. Ginsburgh and Mrs. Trutt were able to increase the facilities of the library. Many new rolls of microfilm became available for students' use. In this election year, many books and pamphlets provided excellent means for students to follow the campaign.

The library subscribed to "Facts on File," a summary of major news stories, in addition to many magazines and newspapers, and emphasized weekly service. Also, since many of these publications cannot be checked out, students used the photocopier.

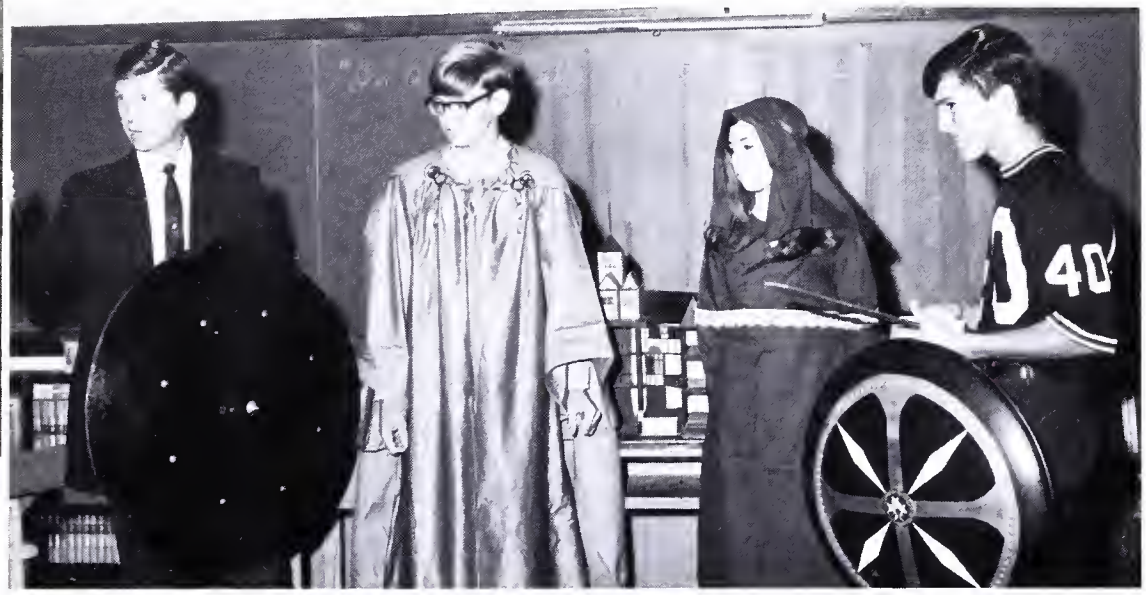
Students Learned The Importance Of Literature



With original costumes, students dramatize English plays.

ENGLISH

Teaching English in a new manner is a difficult and challenging task. This year the English department employed two new methods of presenting literature. Film study in conjunction with literature was used by several teachers. Co-operative teaching offered a wider scope of knowledge to English students. With a new, industrious department chairman, Mrs. Gail Nettles, the English department made many improvements. These new methods of teaching helped to make our language different and more interesting.

The Study Of Languages Opened New Doors

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

New cultures, new customs, new ideas . . . These are the doors the language teacher opens to his students. Another world, another way of communicating can be seen through these doors.

This year language classes had the opportunity to frequently talk with native speakers. The Spanish Club visited a restaurant where members spoke in Spanish and tasted Spanish food. In November, French students attended a bazaar at "The French Church", where they spoke with French people, enjoyed the French cuisine, and saw a sampling of goods for sale.

Through these and similar experiences, students acquired real insight into the differences and similarities among cultures, and learned the importance of understanding others.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

"One two, three, four . . ." This familar sound was heard by all classes in the quonset huts. Physical education students, through both indoor and outdoor activity, acquired skills, sportsmanship, and stamina. On warm days, the physical education students played hockey, baseball, or football. During the winter, gymnastics, volleyball, bowling, and wrestling were the main areas of activity. In spring, the students were taught health, first aid, and driver education. Physical education involved not only activity during school, but also activity after classes. This year bowling intramurals joined basketball, gymnastic, and wrestling intramurals.

SOCIAL STUDIES

A successful society requires well-adjusted citizens and leaders. The social studies department conducted two new projects to help prepare students for their role in later life.

The first was a class which emphasized the relationship of the individual to the problems of our past and present societies. Mr. Match, the instructor, brought the areas of political science, sociology, history, and economics into the course. Mr. Wedlock, working in conjunction with Mrs. Nettles and Mr. Shelton, taught United States History with a stress on leadership.

Through the courses offered in the department, students acquired knowledge, the willingness to learn, and the ability to think.

Study And Observation Were The Keys To New Learning

SCIENCE

$AgNO_3 + NaCl \rightarrow AgCl + NaNO_3$

Chemistry students placed silver nitrate, a bluish liquid, into a beaker with salt, and the next they discovered that silver crystals had formed. For the biology classes, a wooded section behind the school became a plant observatory. Late in February, Mr. Price took his physics classes to the planetarium at Edison for the purpose of learning about the solar system. Observation of weather conditions was a key area of study for the earth science groups.

Certainly the science department was responsible for widely varied areas of study. Through the diverse experiments they performed, science students learned to observe and to draw conclusions.

Progressive Society Requires Math For

Geometry proofs require consultation.

MATHEMATICS

Math is the language of computers, of space exploration, and of scientific research. It is also the language of income tax returns, supermarket prices, and gas mileage per gallon. Whether a student intends to continue the study of mathematics at a higher level of education, or use it in practical day-to-day experience, he should be offered a chance to learn exactly what he needs. Such study is possible at Mount Vernon through courses available in our math department; these range from Consumer Math and Algebra I to Trigonometry – Functions and Calculus. This year the use of a computer has furthered the experiences offered to a serious math student. In room 306, there was a math lab which had new and modern math equipment. This equipment was helpful in learning the language of mathematics, so vital in our progressive society.

Office Practices Were Learned Through Experience

Miss Lucy Jane Lowman, Business Department Chairman.

BUSINESS

"Time . . . . stop typing." This sound could be heard almost every day from the typing rooms. Students practiced speed, skill and accuracy in their typing and shorthand classes. In addition to practical courses, training in business economics, bookkeeping and office practice was also offered. While providing a preparation for the business world, the business department also readied students for success in higher education. With the help of new modernized equipment, business teachers taught students office practices through experience. These skills provide high school students with a well-rounded education, that will lead to opportunity.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

The Home Economics, Distributive Education, and Industrial Arts departments combined creativity with practicality. The training these departments provided was valuable not only in vocational preparation, but also in teaching skills necessary in other pursuits.

Girls enrolled in Home Economics learned the basics for building a good home. They became skilled in cooking, sewing, and general homemaking. For those who planned to make home economics their profession, a specialized course was offered.

A classroom model retail store was established in the Distributive Education department this year. It was the first of its kind and was stocked with sample merchandise from over five hundred manufacturers throughout the country. Mr. Snell, an addition to the faculty, was responsible for many innovations within the department.

A broad range of subjects was covered by the Industrial Arts department. Preparatory instruction was given in mechanical, architectural, and engineering drawing. Courses such as General Shop and Maintenance and Repair gave students practical experience.

FINE ARTS

Enjoyment of the arts was cultivated through many tedious hours of study and production. Art students learned to express their appreciation of beauty through physical talents. Others were lured to the stage to communicate through song and drama. Band members displayed their musical abilities by marching at football games and by giving concerts. The choral department entertained in November with its annual Fall Concert. The drama department was responsible for three excellent performances of Arthur Miller's The Crucible early in December. The efforts of all the fine arts departments were combined to produce the musical Oklahoma. Many strenuous hours of rehearsal and construction were put into this production to make it one of the finest ever seen by the school and surrounding community.

Excedrin headache number twelve: cooking lunch for approximately fifteen hundred people. This difficult task was undertaken daily by our cafeteria staff. Headed by Mrs. Strobel, the women planned menus, prepared meals, and kept the kitchen clean.

Cleaning the many rooms, halls, and quonsets was the job of the custodial staff. During winter, a main concern was keeping the walks safe for travel. Even though understaffed, the custodians managed to maintain a clean, healthy atmosphere.

"Don't tell me you have another stomach-ache today?" Mrs. Peachey, our clinic nurse, kept busy throughout the year by checking ears, eyes, weight and height. By being in the clinic daily, she assured the student of the personal care needed.

Class Friction Provided Means For Advancing Knowledge

From the first day at Mount Vernon until final examinations as a senior, we met with social, as well as academic, pressures. Each day we experienced new emotions as we learned to laugh and to enjoy being together. For four years we withstood increasing tensions as we learned to think, to seek, and to achieve. Continually changing facts were only a small part of the knowledge we acquired. In contrast to this inconstancy, the acquaintances we made as freshmen grew and progressed into deep, lasting friendships.

Only those who have experienced the senior year can fully express the strong feelings and emotions involved with being a senior. Feelings of anxiety, happiness, sadness, and frustration made up only the intangible part of the senior year, the tangible being composed of work, friends, activities, and memories. The Class of 1969 has now joined the ranks of those who have left the halls of Mount Vernon with a feeling of accomplishment, knowing that they themselves walked together to form a united class. Even though the footsteps no longer can be heard in the halls, memories and enduring friendships have been made that will live forever.

Achievement was a prominent factor for the Class of 1970 this year as they showed by winning the Pep Jug for the football season and furnishing wood for the annual bonfire. Juniors, diligently working on their weekends cleaning the stadium, demonstrated the class's industrious nature. Arrival of the class rings made believable the fact that they were finally upperclassmen. Veterans to the traditional homework and novices to college boards, juniors were kept busy as the weeks rushed past until June was finally upon them.

The sophomores began their second year at Mount Vernon with several setbacks. The class lost many members to the new Hayfield High School. In addition, sophomores faced a slow start in activities because of late class elections. However, they were able to adjust to these difficulties and achieve unity through bakesales and an ice-skating trip. Sophomore involvement in athletics increased as they participated in both junior varsity and varsity sports. Fully a part of Mount Vernon, sophomores were active in all phases of school life. Acting leads in The Crucible, a math team member, Key Club members, and SCA representatives were only a portion of their contributions.

Class Sponsor —

Due to the postponement of the officer's elections, the freshman class had a late start this year. But in spite of this delay they still managed to come through with an unusual amount of spirit and unity. Twice winning the Pep Jug, the freshmen gave the upper classes quite a show of this underclass spirit, which helped to create the intense sense of competition anticipated at the weekly pep rallies. The freshman class was also successful in its sports endeavors. Supported by the students and cheerleaders, their football, basketball, and wrestling seasons ended well. The freshmen, as a united class, have made the transition from junior high school to the ever-expanding world of senior high school, and have made it well.

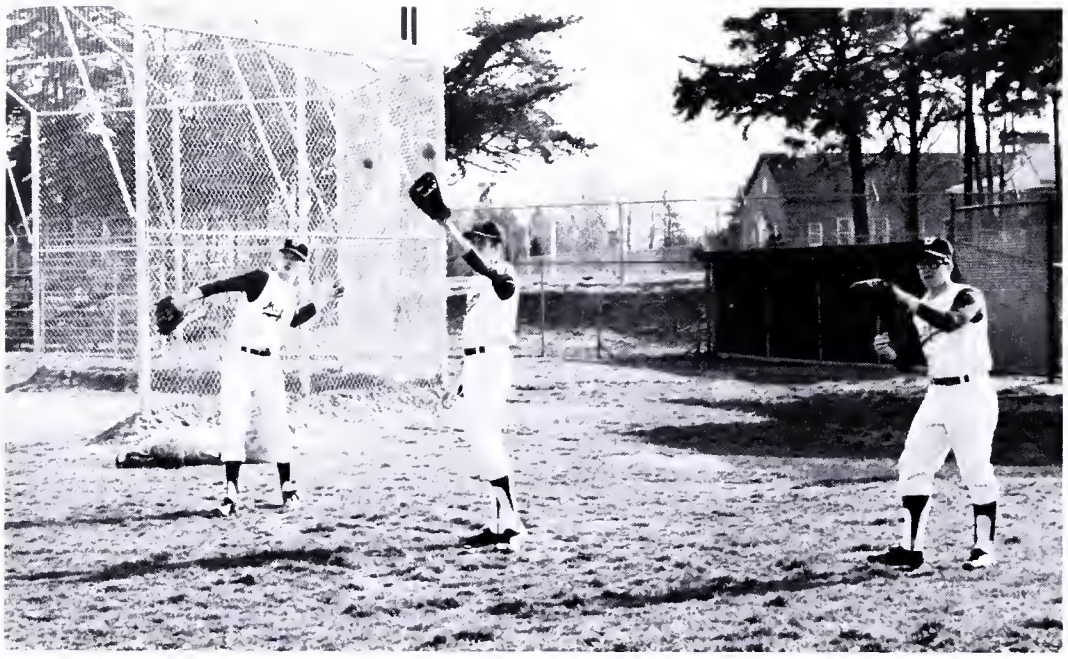
High School Athletes Advanced To College Team Status

Unsurpassed in team spirit, sportsmanship, and talent, our many college-bound athletes found deep satisfaction in sports. Knowing that college and professional scouts were watching had a definite influence on the team's showing. An athletic scholarship, the supreme gratification and ultimate advancement from high school, afforded the opportunity for higher education. For boys who played for the sake of the game or for the prestige of the school, there was a satisfying sense of progress; they won for themselves, for their teammates, and for their school.

SPORTS



Jim Rogers, Ron Beahm, and Bill Jourdan loosen their arms before taking the field.

When the time comes for these ball players to meet in conflict with tough opponents, one can be assured of an all-out showing of a good ball team.

In the post-season tournaments, the Majors defeated Edison to gain the Gunston District Title. They proceeded to the Regional Tournaments, only to be eliminated by Madison, the eventual state champion. Mickey Bower, '68, with a .485 batting average, was ranked among the region's top five hitters. In addition to Bowers, five other starters attained the coveted .300 level.

Athletes Took Their Choice Of Spring Sports

The spring of 1968 saw the golf team, coached by Mr. Pat Freeman, take to the fairways. The golfers, with only two returning lettermen, were handicapped by their lack of experience. Their matches enabled them to work on developing skill and coordination, and they brought home one victory. This background should be valuable assistance to those Major linksmen returning next season. Providing a triumphant end to the season was George Ruhlen, who represented Mount Vernon in the Regional Tournament.

Tennis Team Wielded Rackets

Spring fever sent the 1968 tennis team to many hard and difficult contests on the courts. Although the season proved unsuccessful for the team as a whole, with only one victory against Edison, Tom Michael, a freshman, ranked second in the District Tournament. Coach Stewart Christiano instructed the team in skill and sportsmanship.

For Mount Vernon's track team, 1968 was a rebuilding year. Coached by Mr. Dave Grove, the cindermen gained an important victory over rival Groveton, but lost, seventy to sixty-one, in a disappointing meet with the Edison Eagles. Although the season itself was rather unsuccessful, the track team turned out several remarkable cindermen. Individuals such as Gary Vechik, Jerry and Jack Hutcherson, and Tom Brilhart were depended upon; Vechik broke the mile record of the school with 4:28:1 time. Tom Brillhart was awarded the Most Improved Player, and Gary Vechik won the Heischmann Award.

Girls' Varsity Softball Team Boosted Five Wins

Proving that girls, too, have power behind a bat, the girls' softball teams came through with respectable records after a hard-fought season. Coached by Miss Martha Allen, the varsity team finished the season with a record of five wins and four losses. The junior varsity posted a record of six wins and two losses under the coaching of Miss Virginia Carey. Naturally, as in all sports, the next season is looked forward to for more thrilling and well-played games.

Football Team Pushed Hard To Win District Title

The Majors of 1968 attained the undefeated, untied regular season record that Mount Vernon has been seeking for twenty-eight years. Remembering the close losses to Fairfax and T. C. Williams in 1967, the team set the conquest of these opponents as the first goals of the year. After defeating T. C. and mauling Fairfax, the Majors continued their winning ways over all other competitors. In the season finale, which kept the fans on the edges of their seats for the duration of the game, Mount Vernon overpowered arch-rival Fort Hunt for the Gunston District Title. With their unblemished record the men earned a spot in the Regional Play-Off against Annandale and a chance at a share of the State Championship. The Majors played an outstanding game — one of the year's best — but disappointed their devotees with a heart-breaking 14–7 loss. Quarterback Larry Hartman's jersey, #10, was retired in recognition of his remarkable contributions to the school. Coach Miller and his team truly deserved the famous title "Mighty, Mighty Majors."

Against a tough Annandale defense, Mighty Major Richard Lamb managed to gain ground yardage for Mount Vernon.

Anxious concern characterized the Fort Hunt game.

Twenty-eight boys came out for the 1968 JV football team. Limited by its small size from the start, the team was further cramped by a rash of injuries, which put ten boys out for one or more games. Most of the players ended up playing both offense and defense before the season was out. Co-captains Tim Quinn and Tom Donaldson led the team through the obstacle-ridden season to collar a 2-4-2 seasonal record. Coaches Steve Kendall and Kenny Legins emphasized the fundamentals in their training sessions, in order to mold the undersized, novice group of sophomore boys into an experienced and working unit. They believe the team showed much potential which will materialize during the next two years, when these boys will graduate into Varsity football players.

Freshman Attained Their First Winning Season

Coach Grove and his assistant, Mr. Foglio, are experienced investors who specialize in long-term profits. Each year, from a mass of crude manpower material, they are expected to mold it into a trained and functioning football team. They concentrate on teaching each boy a maximum amount of the fundamentals in the short time alloted to them. Their efforts pay off over the following period of three years, during which their boy-products operate as adept JV and Varsity football powers. The 1968 season paid a bonus dividend – the freshman team brought home a 4-2-2 record, the first winning season ever produced by the frosh. The next three football years should turn out to be "Verrrrry interesting!"

Cross Country Was Not Limited To Official Meets

Long before official practice, cross country participants began to get into shape for the season. Donning their sweatsuits, the boys jogged daily to increase their speed. This preparation proved beneficial as the season progressed; the team ended with four victories, including two over Fort Hunt, and two defeats. Injuries to several runners hurt the Majors in post-season meets. Mount Vernon finished fourth in the district and twelfth in the regional meet.

Field Hockey Was A Sport For The Girls Alone

Most of the sports, in which girls participate are modified from the boys' games; girls' basketball and softball differ only slightly from the boys' sports. Yet, there is one sport at Mount Vernon that remains for the females alone: field hockey. Few people realize the hard work involved in this sport. Daily practices were equally as grueling as those of the boys' football and wrestling teams, and often just as painful. More than once the girls emerged from a fierce "battle" for the ball with bruised shins. Certainly hockey is not a glamorous sport; cold weather, small crowds, and disappointing results characterized the season. Yet, one factor made the girls' efforts worthwhile: they enjoyed the physical skills exercised in field hockey while learning the satisfaction of athletic competition.

Dribblers Faced Tough Competition On The Courts

Ever aggressive on defense, Lou Berry and Mike Day close in on their Highlander foe.

Coach John Wedlock and his varsity basketball team faced the 1968-69 season handicapped by a lack of height. However, the first third of the season produced a 3-3 record against some very formidable opponents, and offered hope that, with continued practice, the season would end satisfactorily. A further blow was struck when one of Mount Vernon's leading players, Ronnie Beahm, received a severe knee injury in the Fort Hunt game and was forced out of the athletic program for several months. Captain Steve Herl and the men on the team exerted themselves untiringly on the courts in an effort to uphold Mount Vernon's fine athletic tradition of always coming through with a creditable performance. Many games were decided only in the last few minutes. Fairfax was one of these; Paul Schultz coolly stood at the foul line and tossed in two baskets, winning a one-point victory for the Majors.

Gymnasts Helped To Round Out MV Athletic Program

Another sport has entered the winter sports curriculum. Undoubtedly, many of the Mount Vernon students did not realize the formation of the team, for lack of proper equipment prevented a home gymnastics meet. Gymnastics participant included seniors Alan Snyder, captain and mainstay of the team, Bill Suggs, and Mike Pritchard, junior Jeff Woods, sophomores Tom Donaldson, Mike Dexter, and Steve Lambert, and freshman Bruce Brady. Coached by Mr. Edwin Taylor, with assistance from Mr. Foglio, the team met difficult competitors, twice battling a tough Herndon team. Inexperience cost the team every meet, but since most of the gymnists are underclassmen, the second gymnastics season will definitely prove more successful.

First District Title

In the face of many obstacles, the girls' varsity basketball team captured their first Gunston District Championship. Miss Vail, coach, ignored several annoying handicaps to concentrate with her girls on the strategy of the game. They sacrificed many precious Saturday afternoons in order to perfect their skills. Another of her innovations was the idea of two circulating trophies — one for high scorer and one for high rebounder — to be awarded after each game. Each trophy was awarded permanently at the winter sports banquet to the girl who had earned it the highest number of times during the season. Co-captains Nancy Fitzgerel and Louise Pinkepank successfully led the team on the "warpath," to be stymied by only three opponents: Lee, Annandale, and West Springfield. Mount Vernon's droopy winter spirit received a lively shot in the arm from these wonderfully spirited and talented girls who were able to bring home these laurels under the pressure of severe deprivation — producing a championship team with just one half-hour of practice every day on half a court!

With The Excitement Of A Winning Season

To be a wrestler is to dream of food, to "psyche" oneself before a match, and then to gorge on the weekends. It also involves daily practice in a ninety degree room wearing nine pounds of clothes in a double effort to lose weight and perfect moves. Wrestling is a seemingly endless cycle of starvation and stuffing. However, the wrestlers go out onto the mat with hard work, excellent coaching, and team and school spirit behind them, push these unpleasant trivialities into the backs of their minds, and wrestle. The satisfaction they gain from individual, as well as team, effort is more than enough compensation for their sacrifices. Possibly, as Coach Fant claims, they wrestle to impress the girls. Yet it seems more likely that they wrestle because they enjoy it, and they are proud to be one of "Fant's Animals." Whatever their reasons, they are to be commended for their tremendous, boundless energy and their ability to achieve successful seasons.

The 1969 wrestling record was eight wins, two losses, and one tie, the best compiled since the 1966 undefeated team placed second in the state. The standouts of this year's team were John Long, ninety-five pound class, and tri-captain Jeff Iiams, one hundred thirty-eight pound class. Both boys boasted undefeated records.

Glen Massie – 112, Tri-captain.

Our Friends Helped Us In Our Struggle To Know Ourselves

Entering high school, we each were faced with an eager desire to be accepted — to be a part of Mount Vernon. As we joined different clubs and organizations, we came to feel that we belonged. We shared experiences and enjoyed the company of others with common interests — people whom we came to know as friends. Being with others was helpful in our struggle to know ourselves. The suggestions, observations, and advice of our friends and acquaintances made us realize our own imperfections and limitations, as well as our assets and abilities.

STUDENT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

An active and well-organized student government helped our school keep abreast of new developments in our rapidly changing world. Not only did our dynamic President Bill Martin head our school organization, he was also President of the state SCA, and, as such, he was able to bring us the news of SCA activities all over the state of Virginia.

This year the Student Cooperative Association consisted of Mr. Baker Shelton as sponsor, five officers, a cabinet, one hundred and three representatives and alternate representatives, and — something new — eight representatives-at-large. The list of activities was long and varied: an exchange program with students from George Washington High School; a good-will offering of flowers to the opposing team at each home football game; a Human Relations Board to discuss problems and student-teacher relationships; the annual magazine campaign; publishing the student handbook, Spyglass; freshman orientation before school opened; a Red Cross drive at Christmastime; a bonfire before the Annandale game; a faculty breakfast, sponsored buses to away football games, wrestling matches, and basketball games; and a sock hop. Choosing the theme of "Everyone Loves a Circus", Kathie McDonald and Debby Fick were co-chairmen and coordinators of the gala homecoming festivities. The major project of the SCA this year was a badly-needed revision of the SCA Constitution.

The functioning of our student government is an exercise in democracy, one in which each student at Mount Vernon may participate; we all work together in order to improve our school and our world.

The Major Outlook Provided Informative Reports

KEY CLUB

A group of spirited young men, dedicated to serve the needs of their school and community, epitomizes the MVHS Key Club. Summertime saw the Key Clubbers volunteer their services as umpires for the Woodley Hills Little League. When the school year opened, the Key Club once again assumed its regular duties of directing traffic at football games, running the scoreboard, and serving coffee and doughnuts to the faculty members in the press box, which was painted by the Key Club. The lines in the parking lot also received a new coat of paint. Each morning a pair of boys raised the flags in front of the school. Thirsty fans at the basketball games were able to purchase Cokes at a Key Club concession stand. The boys marched for ALSAC and the March of Dimes; and at Christmastime they sold trees with their Kiwanis sponsors. Their social engagements included several parties for the children at Junior Village, and get-togethers with the Keyettes.

The Key Club initiated the "Major Outlook", a weekly sports publication containing a scouting report on our next opponents, a review of the last game, predictions, and league scoring statistics. The first paper of its type ever issued at Mount Vernon, it gained acclamation from the whole school community.

Their motto is "We Build" — for justice, liberty, democracy, and a better world in which to live. The Key Club is not a mere organization, but a driving force, developing the leadership for tomorrow while it creates a better community environment today.

KEYETTE CLUB

Our Keyettes have become famous in the Washington metropolitan area this year! Starting in early summer, President Chris Crann was hard at work writing and choreographing the "Let's Get Acquainted!" show in which eleven girls participated. The program was performed first for THE ADULT LITERACY PROGRAM, then THE HEALTH and WELFARE COUNCIL, and finally for UGF. The fun-loving girls earned praises and renown.

The show took a lot of rehearsal and performance time, but the Keyettes always found time to be busy. With the leadership of Vice-President Lynn Barksdale, they ambitiously planned to redecorate the faculty lounges, which sorely needed it. This gave them an opportunity to demonstrate their interior decorating skill, painting, sewing, messing up, and lastly, their clean-up prowess.

Nancy Day rescued 350 old textbooks from the school's incinerator, and the Keyettes donated them to the Salvation Army. They took part in our school's march for ALSAC. The alumnae newsletter was edited by Nancy Eisenhart with art work done by Dawn Furr. Terrie O'Donnell directed several PX bakesales and the inductions ceremonies for new members. An air of mystery added to the fun of decorating secret locker pals' lockers. A list of Keyette Christmas projects included: covering paperback books for the English Department, a slumber party where they made stuffed animals for Children's Hospital, making and selling tissue wreaths, and selling German tree ornaments and UNICEF calendars. Big plans were being made for a springtime bazaar at Easter.

Honor Society Offered Tutoring Services

SENIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Membership in the Senior Honor Society is recognition to those upperclassmen who have maintained an excellent scholastic standing. They must also have shown outstanding character, leadership, and service qualities. Among its accomplishments this year, the club slated the varicolored honor roll in the front hall, where different colors indicated the classes to which students belonged. The activities record also included two inductions ceremonies. While keeping up their own 3.5 average, members tutored students having difficulty in certain subjects. The Honor Society strove to encourage scholastic achievement within the school environs.

JUNIOR HONOR SOCIETY

The membership of the Junior Honor Society is composed of those freshmen and sophomores, selected by the faculty awards committee, who have demonstrated outstanding leadership, scholarship, citizenship, character, and service. They must continue to maintain a high grade average, which was the main criterion for their selection.

The president of the club, Randy Hinson, conducted the meetings; in his absence, Vice-President Cherilyn Fetty was present to take over. Records and minutes were kept by the secretary-treasurer, Kris Wilkins. Inductions were held twice during the school year; to supplement the treasury, members contributed delicious baked goods to several bake sales.

NATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY

The National Thespian Society has the distinction of being an honor society as well as one of the many clubs of Mount Vernon's extracurricular program. Membership to the society is awarded to those students who have shown outstanding participation in the Drama Department's activities. Each year, the Thespians are active in all dramatic productions. However, they produced their own show this year, The Odd Couple, under the direction of club member Bunni Garber. In the past, the Thespian Society has been involved in the presentation of various children's plays around the Washington community. Past performances included Frostie the Snowman and Alice in Wonderland. No exception was made this year, as once again the troupe visited Junior Village in late December. Once a year, Thespian troupes all over the country compete in the Festival of One-Acts. Troupe 1779 eagerly planned to represent Mount Vernon in the spring contest.

Picnic, Dinner, And Trips Were IRC Highlights

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

"What's an IRC?"

Previously, such a question would not have seemed unnatural, and, in all probability, would not have been answered. However, with Mrs. Sonja DeHostos as the new sponsor, the International Relations Club finally made itself known. Over seventy members joined in September, and the club's varied projects drew still more as the year progressed. Completely without funds, the club began with an extremely profitable bakesale. Early in October, Fort Hunt Park was the scene for an "international" football game and picnic. When permanent officers were finally elected, the club was able to begin more serious projects. In addition to holding weekly meetings and discussions, the IRC took several field trips. In December, members visited the Pan American building in Washington, D.C. Late in January, the club hosted a speaker from India. Other plans included a spring trip to visit the United Nations in New York City.

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club found it easy to understand why Frenchmen are famous for their epicurean tastes. In November they joined the Groveton French Honor Society for an evening of dining on French cuisine at Chez Odette. The members made name tags and Christmas trees out of popsickle sticks and sent them to the pediatrics ward of DeWitt Army Hospital. They were able to exercise their gourmet talents at an international buffet in which the Spanish Club and the German Club also participated. Springtime set the scene for a picnic. President Mary Byrd and Mrs. Avoli, sponsor, were kept busy throughout the year planning these events along with bake sales and filmstrips.

These were the German Club's entries in the International Smorgasbord in February, with the appropriate salutation. Also featured at the buffet were pretty waitresses dressed in German costumes. Robin Allen, president, Lisa Gunderson, vice-president, and Secretary-treasurer Anita Bond made up the executive branch of the German Club, with Mrs. Ungern filling the role of sponsor. The club planned visits to German restaurants, and a breakfast cookout in the spring. They learned German folk songs, and several members presented talks, complemented by postcards and photographs, on German cities they had visited. These activities were made possible by the desire to further a mutual interest in the Germanic provinces, which had inspired the individual members to join this club.

Spanish Club Celebrated "Una Fiesta De Navidad"

"Once, twice, three times . . . now the piñata is that way!"

SPANISH CLUB

Each year as Christmas comes around the corner, many of us think of Santa Claus, brightly-lighted evergreen trees, snow, and gaily-wrapped packages. But in the Spanish Club, members have come to think of yuletide as being a giant pinata, showering candy when cracked open, and carols sung in Spanish. During the year, the club familiarized its members with Spain and South America by showing films at meetings. The Spanish Club also held an International dinner with the other language clubs. Foods from many different countries provided a delicious change of pace for the tasters.

JCL Members Proved That Latin Is Not Obsolete

JUNIOR CLASSICAL LEAGUE

"To further the understanding and appreciation of the Roman people and their language", President James Manor led the Junior Classical League through an active and fun-filled year. The members became involved in the study of the ancient classics, the Roman culture, and its language. To supplement the projects planned by the group, their sponsor, Mrs. Sell, shared with them her experiences in the study of Latin. Their most important program was the annual banquet. Weeks of preparation and planning resulted in a festive occasion patterned after those of the venerable Romans. Their exploration of the Latin field helped them appreciate the vast range of Roman influence manifested today, even though the language is no longer spoken.

FRENCH AND SPANISH HONOR SOCIETIES

Three years of dictations, translations, homework, and tests in a foreign language while maintaining an A average . . . this is what members of the French and Spanish Honor Societies have accomplished. Not only have these students gained a membership in the Language Honor Societies, but they have gained the understanding that in today's world we cannot limit ourselves to using our own language. We must expand our studies to include those of other countries as well.

Math Team Competed With Accuracy And Speed

MATH TEAM

The Math Team participates in the interscholastic competition in the Washington metropolitan area and within the Gunston District. The boys on the team must have an extensive background in the mathematical field, and they must be accurate and quick with their calculations. Many of the boys anticipate a future career as mathematicians.

Senior Bob Wakefield captained the team. Along with Bob, Ken Williams, one of the top scorers in the Interhigh Mathematics League, also was an anchor man. The other three places on the competing squad alternated among the rest of the members. Practice began in the fall, when Mrs. Yearick, coach, drilled the men on sample problems. In January, we hosted the Gunston District meet. Competition extended from November through April.

Surveyor STAFF

There is a tiny yellow room tucked in a corner behind the gymnasium. Every day during sixth and seventh periods this little nook became a hive of activity. A steady stream of dedicated students came and went, each busily intent on his task. The tables were strewn with photographs, 3-R forms, croppers, textbooks, pencils, thesauri, dictionaries, memos, 3x5 cards, and huge envelopes. Voices, typewriters, people rushing to and fro, laughter, papers shuffling, and equipment noises combined into a general air of pandemonium. Sometimes the scene was repeated at nights and during weekends as a deadline neared. Mr. T., "ruler of the roost", Barbie and Kay, "Mommy Editors", and twenty-one other staffers centered their activities around this room for nearly a year. The final product of the toil, heartache, tension, tumult, anxiety, and exhaustion emerges from our yellow cubbyhole as the 1969 Surveyor.

Literary Efforts Were Rewarded With NSPA Award

Em Vee Hi

To keep the students at Mount Vernon well-informed is a job that kept the Em Vee Hi staff always alert for news and constantly at work on the next issue. Their monthly publications contained articles on events around the school, commentary on many world affairs, editorials, and amusing columns and cartoons. The members of the staff worked together as a team to publish a well-organized newspaper that Mount Vernonites could be proud of. For his efforts, each worker received recognition in the acknowledgements of every issue. One of their special activities was Twirp Week. The Em Vee Hi sponsors this annual occurrence, and it is one of the highlights of the winter quarter.

SCIENCE CLUB

Under the leadership of President Jon Woods, and with Mr. Swain as sponsor, the Science Club has undertaken not only the routine money-making projects, but also unique research studies. At the beginning of the year, the members divided into special interests groups. Those in each group worked closely together investigating various scientific fields, such as medicine, astronomy, oceanography, and animal behavior. One experiment performed by the animal behavior group involved artificially injecting hormones into rabbits and mice over an extended time period. Another investigation attempted by the club members involved the study of light phenomena. In connection with this project, the noted physicist from Prague, Czechoslovakia, lectured in the Mount Vernon auditorium on "What Color Do You Really See?" The club constructed a device which measures the color band of each individual. Nascent young scientists applied to the club and received financial aid grants for their research projects. The progressive dinner provided an opportunity for fun and relaxation. Each course of the meal was served in a different home.

DEBATE TEAMS

The debate teams competed in Monday night tournaments with other schools in the Gunston District League. Debaters on the varsity affirmative team were Bill Stagg and Tim Baker; the varsity negative team was composed of Lynn Chadwick and Warren Scott. Mr. Garry Jones coached both the varsity and junior varsity squads.

The topic chosen by the National University Extension Association this year was "Manpower, Its Maintenance and Development." The resolution selected was "Resolved: That the United States should establish a system of compulsory service for all citizens." The polemists on the team spent their first three months researching the topic. The season began in January. In addition to their regular league debates, the teams were also able to travel to several special tournaments, including the Columbia University Tournament in New York City. Their trips were made possible by the financial backing of the Debate Club, with additional help from the SCA.

Embassies And Diplomatic Tea Hosted FHA Girls

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

Most of the girls in our school hope to someday become wives, mothers, and homemakers. With this in mind, the Future Homemakers of America Club aims to help girls prepare for their future roles and to show them the way to a healthy and happy home life. The club is a member of a local, state, and national organization, which enables them to expand the field of their interests to include the whole country. Their activities included demonstrations and guest speakers. At a slumber party, they filled Christmas stockings for the Salvation Army. The girls took two embassy tours and attended a tea in one of these diplomatic mansions. Membership in this club has helped many young women learn of new developments in the home economics field and improve their homemaking abilities.

FUTURE SECRETARIES OF AMERICA

Behind every successful businessman is a capable and hard-working secretary. The Future Secretaries of America Clubs prepare girls for these important secretarial positions. Field trips were planned to different business schools, where members could gain new knowledge of this fast-growing field. They had also taken time out each month from their typewriters, adding machines, and shorthand for some worthwhile recreational bowling. The Club's greatest project was sponsoring the Beauty Contest.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Changes occur in all professions; in the educational field change is essential. New teaching methods, ideas, and subjects offer students and teachers wider horizons to explore. The Future Teachers of America Club is dedicated to learning about new developments in education. They visited the National Education Association building, one of many such field trips planned during the year. Members of the club gained first-hand teaching experience by tutoring freshmen at Mount Vernon and children at nearby elementary schools. The State PTA Convention in Roanoke was one of the most exciting experiences of the year. Members were able to attend and hear about innovations and problems of modern education all over Virginia.

The Distributive Education Clubs of America prepare young Americans for roles in the business community. The MV DE Club's meetings featured outstanding guest speakers from local businesses. Roy Jones, treasurer, made over fifty spot announcements about DECA on WEAM. Representatives of the club talked to area civic associations. Football and Basketball games with other DE clubs provided a recreational outlet for members. The District DECA Contest was held at Wakefield High School in February. Winners in this contest went on to the State Leadership Contest, where Roy Jones ran for State President, and from there to the National Leadership Conference in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Their activities were well-publicized in local newspapers.

CHORUS

Highlighting the new school year, the Fall Concert presented not only the melodious voices of several choruses, but also a number of talented soloists. The Christmas Concert was an inspiring boon to the holiday spirit of those in the audience. And then the Spring Concert caused an epidemic of spring fever that left the listeners feeling dizzy and light-headed. Before concerts came many hours of practice, but the results proved to be entertaining and very rewarding. Two appearances on the "Here's Barbara" television show and radio broadcasts were other noteworthy accomplishments of the Mount Vernon Concert Choir.

As Well As On Football Field And Stage

BAND

The "sound of music" wafted through the open windows of the classrooms as the band rehearsed on the football field. Study halls were entertained for days by mock-concerts as the band prepared for its annual fall and spring musicals. In the past year, Mount Vernon's music was carried out onto the playing field, into other schools, and even to other cities by the Mount Vernon High School Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Eugene Steinbach.

The marching musicians are known around our school mainly for their pre-game opening ceremonies with "The Star Spangled Banner" and for their half-time performances at home football games. But these are only a few of their music-making activities. This year, seven Mount Vernon musicians won positions in the All-District Regional Band: Brenda Gross, Susan Miller, Doug Brittain, Jim Blackwell, Jim Smith, Gerald Pittman, and Dave Vosburg. At the annual Spring Music Festival in March, our band was adjudicated by some of America's best high school music experts. Mount Vernon's entry in the Apple Blossom Parade at Winchester, Virginia, consisted of the Band, Color Guard, Majorettes, and Drill Team.

The administrative part of the band is the Band Council. President Tom Doeppner and his other officers held regular meetings to make decisions of band policy for the year.

MAJORETTES

Twirling fire and flag batons, the Mount Vernon Majorettes exhibited their graceful skills at all home football games. They were led by Captain Glenda Thayer. However, they did not confine their talents to football games. Dancing to the popular tune of "Th roughly Modern Millie" in the Variety Show, the Majorettes displayed their Terpsichorean gifts. Because of all their fine assets, Mount Vernon was proud to have the Majorettes represent us in the Apple Blossom Parade at Winchester, Virginia.

Leading the pre-game activities at home football games, the Color Guard proudly carried the flags of the United States, Great Britain, Virginia, and Mount Vernon High School out onto the field. As the students, faculty, and patrons of both schools rose and sang the "Star-Spangled Banner", their hearts filled with pride in our country The spectators felt their spirit of patriotism rejuvenated and faith in the youth of the nation renewed as they watched the moving ceremony performed by the girls of the Mount Vernon High School Color Guard.

DRILL TEAM

The year has been memorable not only for our football team's fine seasonal performance, but also for our Drill Team's remarkable halftime activities. Under the direction of Captain Lynne Garrett and President Debbie DeJonghe, the Drill Team performed at every home football game. Their polished routines were the result of long hours of practice during the summer and autumn.

At the first home game, the Drill Team formed the traditional "MV", which brought applause and praise from every onlooker. This high standard was upheld throughout the entire season. The final routine, a "69" formation, honored each and every senior. This last routine was accompanied by tears from those proud senior girls who had marched at their last halftime.

Besides marching at football games, the Drill Team did much more for spirit. Their main spirit-raising project was decorating the hall locker of each Mount Vernon athlete. These decorations ranged from the simple to the extravagent, and often included tasty treats. Colorful, handmade jinx dolls contributed to the defeat of Fort Hunt, Fairfax, and Edison.

The Drill Team also marched in both the George Washington Parade and the Apple Blossom Parade. Mount Vernonites could be proud of their representation of our school.

For some, the Fort Hunt game meant the last time to march.

New Uniforms Combined With Increased Vitality

CHEERLEADERS

Leading cheers is just one of the assorted talents required of the MV cheerleaders. Their summer schedule encompassed numerous car washes and bake sales, with which they earned enough money to purchase new warm-up jackets for the entire football team. The girls brought juicy watermelons and oranges to the parched team during summer practices. And after a tiring day of charitable endeavors, the girls were found at school practicing in the evenings. When school started, the cheerleaders conducted Friday morning pep rallies to get the fans in shape for the game. They mothered and constantly promoted the delicate school spirit with lollipops, victory tags, programs, and "Think Yes" buttons. Their smiling, pretty faces brightened the drab hospital rooms of our injured football players. Their job calls for a great amount of creative output in the form of banners, posters, and decorations. And in addition to these abilities, the girls on the cheerleading squad must be fantastically agile, coordinated, graceful, strong, and "loud-mouthed" to perform their primary function — cheerleading at all athletic events.

Spiriters Instituted Pep Jug At Morning Rallies

SPIRITERS

The 240 members of the Spiriters Club form the backbone of spirit in Mount Vernon High School. The cheerleaders were guests at the first meetings, where they showed the club the new cheers. Thus prepared, the enthusiastic Spiriters turned out in droves for the games and filled the fifty-yard-line stands with maroon and white beanies, from under which roars of excitement streamed to encourage the Majors out on the field. An important addition to the traditional Friday morning pep rallies was the Spiriters' Pep Jug, which sparked interclass competition. The club printed and distributed free victory tags. They also sponsored buses to away games. They purchased six banners commemorating MV's championships for the gym. Spiriters presented the Harvest Moon Dance with the Classics. The Jelly Bean Contest added cheer to dreary January and temporarily revived class spirit. They also planned a spring dance with two big bands.

Olive Scott presents the pep jug to the seniors.

Tense Excitement Added To The Pleasure Of Our Activities

Though each day officially ended at three-thirty, most of us found that our school interests were extended through the afternoon and into the evening. With our friends, we discovered amusement and diversion in the many Mount Vernon activities. The tense speculation of the audience as well as the Homecoming Court, the pressure during the filming of "It's Academic", the uneasiness before the curtain rose, and the nervous anticipation of Twirp Week only added to the enjoyment and pleasure of these activities. As each tense, exciting milestone was passed, we eagerly looked forward to the events ahead.

SPRING ACTIVITIES

After a cold winter, Mount Vernon welcomed spring with a fresh supply of activities and renewed spirit. Competition stemmed from sports to beauty, as lovely contestants competed for coveted title of "Miss Mount Vernon." Miss Lynne Garrett was the final choice of both audience and judges, and was crowned by former Miss Mount Vernon, Paula Pate. Miss Debbie DeJonghe, Miss Margarita Echeverry, Miss Susan Black and Miss Sharon Metcalf completed the list of runners-ups.

What would spring be without sports? Competition again was tough, but Mount Vernon's baseball team was awarded with the Gunston District Championship. Prospective candidates campaigned for the offices of the SCA and classes, while June grads looked toward the final of their high school years: Graduation. Spring proved a memorable season for all, both those returning and those saying goodbye, happily recapping a fruitful and rewarding year.

Barefoot in the Park AND Alice in Wonderland

Although talent is scattered throughout the school, a great portion of it is collected and refined by the Department of Dramatic Arts and the National Thespian Society. Barefoot in the Park, a Neil Simon comedy hit was presented last year and starred Bunni Garber and Bill Landry, both of whom are drama students and members of the Society. The remainder of the cast was composed of drama students.

Produced entirely by the Thespian Society, the children's play Alice in Wonderland provided an opportunity for its members to display their acting talents. Due to the large number of people necessary to cast the play, the students in the dramatics department were once again called upon. Bravo to both the Thespians and the remaining cast for a job well done.

Music And Drama Departments Brightened

Oklahoma

Excellence keynoted the Music and Drama Departments' presentation of Rogers and Hammerstein's Oklahoma. Leading voices of Cathy Jourdan, Chris Crann, Kathie Strong, Bill Martin, and Joe Bradshaw blended melodiously in such timeless favorites as "Oklahoma", "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning", and "People Will Say We're in Love." Under the guidance and direction of Mr. Gene Steinbach, Miss Louise Hopkins, Mr. A. Lee Pauley, and choreographers Mrs. Richard Catchpole and daughter Cindy, the musical proved a success in all aspects.

Three performances, three curtain calls, and three standing ovations rewarded Mount Vernon's hardworking cast and crew with an accomplishment well deserved. Such excellence was reached only after months of preparation and rehearsal in which each member gave tirelessly of himself to make Oklahoma a fine production.

GRADUATION

The Senior Class of 1968 stood upon the threshold of the future as they concluded the final phase of their life at Mount Vernon High School. It was a conclusion, yet a new beginning — a time to remember, yet a time to look ahead.

At the annual Senior Class Banquet, the Senior Superlative Awards were presented and excerpts were read from the Last Will and Testament. The prom, combined with the Juniors, was a great success after extensive planning and hard work. Baccalaureate Services were held in the tradition of Mount Vernon at the Washington Cathedral. Finally, the climax arrived, the dream of all who become a part of Mount Vernon's student body: Graduation at Constitution Hall.

FALL ACTIVITIES

A spirited student body kicked off the opening of another promising year as each class welcomed the challenge of the ensuing term. United in the thrill of victory for our Majors, the students partook of endless pep rallies, competed for the Spiriter's pep jug, and reaped the benefits of our indomitable team; each felt the flow of maroon and grey blood in his heart. Though dominated by football triumph, the fall season will be remembered for limitless activities, including the music department's presentation of their annual Fall Concert. Mount Vernon also participated in its final magazine campaign, sponsored by the SCA, in a joint effort to raise money for the school. Anxiously, the juniors ordered their class rings and began the long wait until their spring arrival.

As we observed the changes of the leaves and seasons we looked back and acknowledged a change in ourselves as well. Though we shall experience many more changes, few will forget the spirit and pride or the challenge and delight, of the fall season, 1968.

Circus thrills moved from under the Big Top to under the stars and lights of Mount Vernon's stadium as the student body and the alumni celebrated the twenty-sixth annual Homecoming. Miss Homecoming of 1967, Bonnie Buyett, traditionally performed the coronation as a jubilant crowd roared enthusiastically.

WINTER ACTIVITIES

Who ever said cold weather meant inactivity? Mount Vernon students were off and running with a restless and ever-expanding agenda of activities. Seniors Karen Remington, Pat McCarthy and Tom Doeppner matched wits with teams representing Central and Stone Ridge High Schools on the televised, It's Academic program. Fearless Keyettes undertook the harrowing task of redecorating both men's and women's teacher's lounges. The finished lounges sparkled from windows to floors, and were complete with curtains, pillows and bulletin boards. Others activities included Christmas Hall decorations and a Christmas concert put on by the Choral Department.

Surely Mount Vernon's transition from 1968 to 1969 was an active and rewarding one.

By candlelight new French Honor Society members are inducted.

Keyettes Cathy Dumas and Barbara Hicks undertake the task of painting.

Industrious Keyette, Nancy Fitzgerel diligently partakes in redecorating.

Twirp Week Restored Power To The Feminine Sex

TWIRP WEEK

Year after year, the feminine portion of Mount Vernon's student body anxiously awaits the glorious five days known as Twirp Week. Such a week is set aside not only for the purpose of nabbing that man of your dreams, but to celebrate St. Valentine's Day as well. Highlighting the week were a Battle of Bands and the traditional Twirp Dance as well as special days set aside as Lollipop Day and Dress-Alike Day. Gay hall decorations ranged from Abner and Daisy Mae to a Kiss from the Junior Class, as all four classes matched originality and talent in the hall competition. King and Queen, Guy Darby and Miss Cindy Colyer were chosen to reign as an additional highlight to the eventful week.

Perhaps the Junior Class summed Twirp Week up best by saying "Love Is The World Around Us".

Juniors find Twirp Week an opportunity to display their award-winning talents through hall decorations.

Cindy Colyer and Guy Darby reign as the happy Queen and King of Twirp Week's Dogpatch.

Once again the students of Mount Vernon gather to hear one of uniquely rare performances when Bill Martin, Jody Lohendro, and Tim Koogle come down from the hills.

Barbara Frazelle and Russ Frizzell "chew the fat," Dogpatch Style.

When Twirp couples discovered that marriage licenses expire at 12:00 A.M., Marryin' Sam lost most of his customers.

Much to the dismay of Jane Delaconception, Anne Hazard and Sandy Snyder, Li'l Abner does not seem interested in Twirp Week activities.

Twirp couples mob the Hitching Post to get one of the "prime, 45¢, Shotgun weddings with all the trimmings."

Dramatists Displayed Diversity In

Both Comedy And Tragedy

The Crucible and The Odd Couple

Though Mount Vernon's stage organizations, the Thespian Society and Drama Department are consistent in their production, two outstanding dramatic achievements were made by its participants. Arthur Miller's The Crucible was presented as the story of the fascinating witch trials of Salem. Each member of the cast contributed the utmost effort and ability in their portrayal, marking The Crucible as an ultimately successful production.

In contrast to the deep and tragic Crucible was the presentation of Neil Simon's comedy hit, The Odd Couple. Its most enjoyable aspect was the reality of the situation, in harmony with its delightful wit. Another major attribute lay in the play's polished ability to move smoothly throughout the entire production. The transition from tragic emotion to lighthearted comedy was a great step but one indeed well taken.

The final dramatic scene enhanced the serious production.

Members of The Crucible cast take a well-deserved bow.

Excited girls create havoc in Salem's courtroom.

Cast members take a breather from the tragic play.

Understanding, Both Ourselves And Those About Us

AFTERWORD

Somewhere in the pages of a yearbook, a moment was captured that we perhaps misplaced . . . The Surveyor, 1968–1969 — a tiny slice of time, that was so many things. It was tension, disappointment, triumph, laughter, thrills, spirit, enthusiasm, tears. Was it so long ago that we tingled with excitement over a touchdown or a moment when the spotlight was ours? Did we find ourselves forgetting the wonderful people who were such vital assets to our world? To those who made Mount Vernon their way of life, those moments have been sealed in our hearts and minds forever, to be recalled at the turn of a page.

Students Prepared For Tomorrow's Occupations

Mount Vernon students' interest in business was not limited to the stores and shops they patronized. Within the school, students learned commercial skills in the Distributive Education, Vocational Office Training, and Industrial Co-operative Training programs. These students found it hectic and tense as they pursued their school activities while maintaining jobs. Yet the efforts were beneficial; they learned valuable work habits and knowledge. Additional interest were pursued in the general shop and maintenance classes, typing and shorthand and other business courses. Students utilized these opportunities to prepare for the future as they became acquainted with their vocations of tomorrow.

MARTIN'S HARDWARE

Martin's Hardware, because of the friendly helpfulness of the employees and the convenience of its locality, is an establishment often frequented by the students of Mount Vernon. It has become a second "school store" when the one within the school is short of merchandise, and many students depend on it for their supplies. The members of the back-stage crews of the school's drama department are also patrons of Martin's as they dash "across the street" for many needed or forgotten articles.
